DIVISION OF THE BERLIN GOVT IS MORE PRONOUNCED

Set Up Separate Police Quarters, Western and Soviet Sectors

ALSO OTHER SPLITS

Division Made in Food Administration After Letsch is Installed

By Joseph L. Raft

(T. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, July 29—The division of municipal government in Berlin became more pronounced today.

Separate police headquarters were established for the Western sectors and the Soviet sector of the city. The food administration also was split.

The separation of police forces came after the German city council defied single-handed Russian efforts to impose the Soviet will and approved the suspension of Communist Police Chief Paul Markgraf.

In the same action the council named Johannes Stumm as acting police chief.

Stumm immediately set up police headquarters in German troop barracks near the Tempelhof Airdrome in the American sector. Headquarters for the whole city previously had been in the Soviet sector.

Markgraf, retaining Russian support, directed that all Berlin police continue to deal exclusively with headquarters in the Soviet sector which he has refused to abandon.

Markgraf warned that reprisals will be taken against those who fail to conform with his directives but made no mention of specific action to be taken.

Whereas the city council acted on behalf of all Berlin in naming Stumm to the post of chief and setting up new headquarters, the Russians are holding fast to the headquarters in their sector. It appears that they are determined to retain Markgraf as East-sector chief.

The full support of the council was placed behind Stumm after Berlin's defiant Lord Mayor, Frau Louise Schroeder, told the Soviets she could not recognize any unilateral Soviet action.

The Russians had ordered Stumm dismissed. Frau Schroeder pointed out that under her oath she could comply only with orders agreed to by all four occupying powers.

The division in the food administration came when the Russians installed Communist Paul Letsch as deputy food director in a maneuver to have Letsch take control of the council's food department.

From now on it appears that he will handle food matters in the Soviet sector.

WHERE EXPLOSION BROUGHT DEATH TO HUNDREDS IN GERMANY

Smoke mushrooms up in a dark plume hundreds of feet high following an explosion and fire in the Ludwigshafen chemical plant of I. G. Farben. While the exact death toll may not be known for days, about 600 workers were believed to have been killed and some 1,400 injured. A U. S. official said 200 were known to have died. The plant, located in the French zone of Germany, employed 6,500 men. The disaster was declared the greatest since the war. (International Radiophoto.)

PENNDL, July 29—The Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club listened to an interesting talk given by Ralph Freed, of the Glenside Club, concerning the California convention at its dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Royal Gardens, Bensalem Township.

Ralph Freed, secretary of Glenside Kiwanis Club, was introduced by MacDonald Benton, Lieutenant governor of Division 13, who was also a guest of honor at the meeting. Mr. Freed said that Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, of the Baptist Church of St. Louis, Mo., opened the meeting at 9:30 a.m. and spoke on the subject of "United Nations."

Dr. Armstrong, president of Kiwanis International, lauded Kiwanis for the progress it has made in the last 30 years. A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

More than 300 persons were killed and at least 6,200 injured in an explosion and fire that wrecked the I. G. Farben chemical works in Ludwigshafen, Germany, yesterday.

Continuing blasts and fires hampered rescue work. The explosion came shortly before the 22,000 employees were to leave.

Another disaster took the lives of at least 16 Americans when one of the three B-29's on an around-the-world flight crashed into the sea off Aden, Arabia. Only one man was rescued.

It was reported in London that the Western Allies, in their note to Moscow, would propose that Austria and Trieste be included with Germany in four-power talks if Russia agreed to resume negotiations. Secretary Marshall refused to throw any light on the contents of the new Berlin note. He called some news from abroad incorrect.

Frau Louise Schroeder, Berlin's Acting Mayor, rejected a Soviet demand to reinstate the ousted Communist chief of police. His successor, named by the City Council, moved to the American sector.

Plans were reported under way in Geneva to bring the countries of Eastern and Western Europe together in an effort to stimulate trade between the two regions.

Southern Democrats forced a 24-hour delay on the anti-poll tax bill in the Senate and Republican leaders qualified their predictions of passage. Some support came to a Southern proposal to settle the issue.

SHOWDOWN INEVITABLE

If the American people are not fully aware of the perils of the Berlin crisis, the sort of talk they are now hearing from Army leaders should make them so. Altogether too often for comfort and peace of mind the word war appears in conversation—not cold war but shooting war.

The mistake American leaders made in establishing an occupation zone in Berlin entirely surrounded by the Russians is now coming home to roost. It is of academic interest now whether the mistake was made by Roosevelt, Truman or Eisenhower. Recently an inspired story was released in Washington attempting to place the blame on John Wingut, a fuzzy brain who was appointed ambassador to England by Roosevelt and who has since committed suicide.

Whatever the feelings of Americans may be, the British and the French are not viewing the matter calmly. That could be because they are closer to the scene or it could be because they are accustomed to take a more objective—and even pessimistic—attitude toward international developments. In any event, their governments and their newspapers are desperately afraid that the incident is not far away which will once again plunge the world into conflict.

Obviously there must soon be a showdown. This business of feeding by air the 2,000,000 people who live in the western zone of Berlin can not be a permanent arrangement. And it is a standing insult to the sovereignty of the United States.

Indicative of the position of those who know the situation best is the suggestion now heard in steadily increasing volume, that direct action be taken against Russia. There would be danger in such a course. It would lead to war. But, having been betrayed into this trap by its leaders, what can America do?

It is presumed that as night baseball increases in popularity the umpire will be called a burglar instead of robber, the former being more fitting for crime after dark.

Truman's civil rights proposals have been included in the Communist party platform for twenty-five years, or isn't that supposed to be mentioned?

ROYDON WINS YOUTH LEAGUE SEASON CROWN

Roydon A. C. captured the regular season championship of the Bristol Youth League with a 16-3 win over the Bristol Township nine team on the latter's field. The Croydonites ran up their overwhelming score on 12 hits and 5 errors and clinched the contest with five runs in the third inning. The feature of this rally was triple by France with the bags ded.

France's bat played a prominent part in Croydon's triumph as he batted out two three-baggers and four of singles. He drove in four runs and scored three more. Jimmy Morrell did the pitching for the winners and allowed Township eight hits, five of which were made by Anthony Pfaffenrath and George Burton. Morrell had ten strikeouts.

The managers of the playoff games of the Bristol Youth League met this evening in the Diamond Sporting Goods Store, Mill Street.

MUTH, IN MOUND DUEL WITH RUBINO, WINS THE GAME

"Herm" Pluma was in peak form last evening as he twirled the Goodwill Hose team to a shutout victory over the Langhorne Legion in a Suburban League game on the Third Ward field.

Pluma gave the Legionnaires but two safe hits as his mates rolled up a 9-0 score. A single by Dale Miller in the sixth and another by Emerson Clark in the seventh were the only bingles made off Pluma who pitched hitless ball for the first five innings.

Muth gave the Hibs three hits while Rubino allowed Terrace four hits.

The clinching marker was scored in the fifth canto when Weida singled, Muth walked, and Marty Braam slashed out a base hit.

Terrace finished its Bristol Youth League season with twelve wins and two defeats, one full game behind the championship Croydon team.

DEMOCRATS TIE WITH FIFTH WARD, 6 TO 6

The Democrat Club and Fifth Ward battled to a 6-6 tied game last evening on Memorial Park field in a Suburban League tilt.

The Legion team failed to take advantage of several spells of wildness by Pluma. He walked no fewer than seven batters but when the chips were down used his hooks to good advantage. He whiffed nine men.

Goodwill had twelve hits off the trio of Langhorne hurlers. "Sparrow" Darrah started and gave way to "Al" Knox in the second. Dale Miller finished the game after replacing Knox in the third.

"Wally" Oppman collected three out of three for the hosemen, while "Bobby" Bauroth boosted his average by getting two out of three.

The triumph put Goodwill one-half game away from the league-leading St. Ann's team.

Writes of Furniture
At Pennsbury

storeroom adjoining, would account for the uses of the Manor House itself, leaving one state bedroom on the second floor for guests. And no doubt there was space on the third floor for extra cots or shake-downs for overnight visitors. The somewhat primitive night quarters in the lofts of the kitchen, etc., for the domestic force speak eloquently of the customs regarding bond servants and farm hands of that day.

The Manor House which William Penn had fully planned for his summer home, stands today as it must have appeared on the afternoon of his arrival with his family and their belongings, ready and welcome for occupancy. Awaiting only the personal belongings which the barge would transport from the little "Green Town" miles down the river. The chests and bales carried up from the dock would hold books, clothing, silver and tableware, household necessities, saddles and stable harness, etc., not to speak of business papers and gear for Penn's own desk and writing table. All of these would have come only when the family came, and would provide the finishing touches to the rooms already set in order with the furniture sent earlier by Penn's meticulous directions from England. That stuff came over in various consignments to Philadelphia; and its placing was evidently carefully specified by Penn himself.

He liked detail. And his vision for the unseen and eternal had not blurred his keen imagination for the practical orientation of his furnishings in those rooms he had so carefully planned as to dimensions, lighting, fire places, doorways, connecting spaces, and outside and interior vistas.

In choosing the hour of the arrival of the Penn family for this second pattern of those somewhat austere, but handsomely sedate interiors, the Furnishing Committee had to forego any museum aspect of the house, any ornament or furnishing which Penn himself could not have found there, or ordered placed there in anticipation of his arrival. No reminder of what happened after those three summers he and his family lived there, however, reminiscent of Penn, could be given space there now; least of all a picture of his grave, or even of his elderly profile, or of an imaginative painting of him beneath the Treaty Tree painted by West. This rule is difficult to keep in mind, apparently by would-be donators of Penn reminders.

The people of Pennsylvania, through the Government, gave the funds for the restoration of the Manor and for its furnishings, and the Historical Commission made the rule. Some private individuals, some State organizations, have presented gifts appropriate to the Manor House and to Penn's way of life in Pennsbury since the furnishing committee undertook its work. There will be other gifts, no doubt. At least two rooms that now remain unfurnished on the third floor might well be furnished by generous donors. Logan's room and the Blackfan-Crispin room could be furnished by gifts of funds from the descendants of either of these former occupants. There are plenty of Logans, plenty of Crispins and Blackfans, there are even Penns'.

By the ruling of the Commission, all gifts, though listed with appreciation and designated on the Files of the Furnishings, must bear no outward advertisement of the giver. This, of course, is in order to eliminate all traces of museum pattern from the rooms and furnishings, and to foster the illusion that the house is awaiting its Master and Owner, whose barge has been sighted coming up the river—coming home to a house whose every design for its charm and comfort has been carefully carried out by his prospective household awaiting his arrival, from the garden planting to the baby's cradle.

Even the flower arrangement on the table by the front doorway belongs to an earlier fashion than ours of today. It is for William Penn and Hannah Penn and Letitia to enjoy as they enter.

Parsons Now Heads Police Chiefs' Ass'n

countries to find that the first organization which is infiltrated is the police department. By accomplishing this purpose, subversive agents seek to destroy and silence all those who dare to cry out against their teachings and methods of organization. By their control of the police, they are in a position to jail the leaders of the opposition, break up meetings, gag the press, and suppress and kill all those who dare to oppose their vicious principles."

Drawing himself to his full height, Parsons warned, "In times of danger we have always presented a united front, and my first act as president of this Association is to go on record as declaring that in the police of America there is no place for Communism or any other ism except Americanism. We will make it plain to those who attempt to enter our ranks to cause dissension or to control our forces that we will discover and expose them as the traitors they are. There is no place for a fifth column in the law enforcement of America. There is room for only one column, and that is a column to uphold our age-old ideals of loyalty, equality, and democracy."

In response to Parsons' demand, every member of the organization rose to his feet and, turning as one, faced the large American flag at the end of the room and repeated in measured, solemn tones the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Parsons concluded his acceptance speech by requesting the co-operation and assistance of all members throughout the coming year.

Martin W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Mayor Leo C. Williamson, of Wilkes-Barre, were among the speakers. This was the concluding session of a three-day Conference of police executives which resulted in a resolution being passed demanding more stringent laws to curb drunken driving and enforce "On-the-Spot Science," which consisted of taking chemical tests of suspected drunken drivers at the scene of the violation.

Numerous prominent law enforcement officials attended this Conference and spoke to the assembled delegates. Among them were Dr. H. Raymond Ahlum, Sheriff of Bucks County, Pennsylvania; Barrett & Monroe, Esqs., 205 Radcliffe Street, Bristol, Pennsylvania. 7-15-37ow

Business Girls Participate In A Lawn Party at Edgely

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Edward G. Yeomans
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Most Gracious God, the Source of all life and the Fountain of all blessing; Thou hast opened Thy hand to fill us with all good things. We know that Thou dost watch over us and rule us with all love; Thou dost feed us like a shepherd; Thou dost keep us beneath the shadow of Thy wings in safety; and Thou art ever mindful of us in want and in plenty, in sickness and in health, in sorrow and in joy. May we never forget Thee; but remember to give Thee thanks in times of plenty, and of health, and of joy; and to seek Thy blessing in seasons of want, and of sickness and of sorrow. And unto Thee we ascribe all praise in Jesus' Name. Amen.
